ANNAPOLIS ĘLEVEN PICKED TO TRIUMPH OVER GREAT LAKES

Paddy Driscoll and Pals Rule Favorites Among Fans, but Superior Team Work and Condition Should Swing Victory to Gilmore Dobie's Middies

> By ROBERT W. MAXWELL Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

AGLANCE over the football schedule for tomorrow is a convincing argument that sports again are on the map and the public will have a chance to spend a pleasant afternoon in the open instead of studying the war maps. It is the biggest gridiron day of the year despite the absence of Yale, Harvard and Princeton, for many important contests are on the card. Out in Pittsburgh two championship elevens-Pitt and Georgia Tech-will fight it out for the title. On Franklin Field Penn and Swarthmore will resume the 1918 series and play the second game of the set. Lehigh and Lafayette meet in Easton and the Navy clashes with Great Lakes Naval Training Station, of Chicago, at Annapolis. In the West, Michigan meets Michigan Aggles, Notre Dame plays Purdue and Chicago and Illinois settle their annual argument on Stagg Field.

Outside of the Pitt-Tech contest the fuss at Annapolis is attracting most attention. For two years Gilmore Dobie's team has been forced to meet weaker opponents and the only exercise derived was in running up big scores. Dobie believes in walloping a team 1000 to 0 if possible and has his men going at top speed from start to finish. This year all of the games have been won by lop-sided scores, and the Middies expect to swell their

Because of the victory over Rutgers last Saturday, the Great Lakes cleven looms up as the favorite in tomorrow's battle. This is no more than right, for any team that can wallop an aggregation like Rutgers deserves credit and everything that goes with it.

But the Navy should not be counted out as yet. Critics who have seen the team in action report it is one of the best they have seen this year and the material is exceptionally good. The backfield works like a smooth-running machine and the linemen charge hard and low on every play. The attack is varied with line bucks, end runs and forward passes, but the plays off tackle predominate.

PERSONALLY, I believe Annapolis will win the game because of superior team work and condition of the men. It must be admitted that Paddy Driscoll is a good football team, but he cannot play against eleven well-coached athletes.

Rutgers's Collapse a Warning to Navy Eleven

THE Navy will not be overconfident in tomorrow's battle. The news of the Rutgers calamity has been taken seriously and the Middles realize they have a tough job on their hands. There will be no fooling or letting down if Annapolis happens to score first. Also, Driscoll will be watched carefully by every man on the Navy team. It will be difficult for him to get away with many long runs.

A service team is the most uncertain proposition in football. One day It looks like a million dollars and the next it has every appearance of a plugged nickel. Take the Newport team of last year, for example. Cupid Black, Charley Barrett, Schlachter, of Syracuse; Gerrish, of Dartmouth. and other stars cleaned up everything until they met Rutgers and then exploded. The players have not the same spirit they had in college, there are no traditions to uphold and the only thing which keeps them going is their love for the game. Football men know it is hard work to play when the season nears an end and it is the backing of the college which keeps

For that reason I favor Annapolis over Great Lakes. It is true the Westerners have some high-class players on the team, but individual work never has been successful. Also, the record of the eleven makes it a gang of mystery players. The Rutgers game was the best of the year, for before that time the Gobs scored exactly three touchdowns in four games. Illinois was beaten 7 to 0, Iowa lost 7 to 0, Notre Dame was held to a 7-to-7 tle and the Northwestern battle ended in a 0-to-0 draw. And that's not all, The Chicago Naval Reserves walloped the tar out of Great Lakes 25 to 0 in an early game. How can you figure a team like that?

The truth of last Saturday's game was that Rutgers had a case of swelled head, and when the swelling went down it was too late. That overwhelming defeat has caused not only the Navy, but Pittsburgh as well to take the next games seriously. The players have had an ebject lesson and the coaches have warned them against overconfidence,

THE Penn-Swarthmore battle should be hard fought, but the advantage seems to be with the Garnet. Penn had a hard time out at Pitt, many of the best men were used up and many substitutes will be inserted. On the other hand, Swarthmore has been improve ing steadily, the men are in shape and ready to end the series with two straight victories.

WHILE the football season is likely to last well into the month of December and the games are getting better every week, baseball is horning in for its place in the spotlight. The great national pastime will be in full operation this year and already plans are being made for the spring training trips. Three southern cities have sent invitations to the Cincin nati club and the others are falling in line. After the annual meeting in New York on December 10 there will be plenty of scandal and things like that to keep the home fires burning in the hot stove league all winter.

Last Saturday I saw Barney Dreyfuss at the Pitt-Penn game. Barney had a faraway look in his eyes, for it is seldom he sees a crowd in Forbes Field-unless it is at a football game. I asked him about the future of "Everything is lovely," he remarked, still looking over the crowd which meant nothing to him in a financial way. "Yes, things are looking up for next season, and take it from me, there will be baseball no matter what Ban Johnson has to say about it. I have my fighting clothes on and am ready for some excitement in the December meeting. I have a schedule prepared and we are ready to get down to business.

"Baseball has not suffered despite the short season last year. The game is stronger than ever, and when the stars come home from the trenches the public will turn out and give them a rousing welcome. I look for a big season."

"What shout the election of a president of the National League?" I asked. "Who is this man Robert Brown you are boosting for the job?" "Brown is a great executive," replied Barney, "but few know him personally. That is the reason for the many questions and raps in the newspapers. What do you know about him? Have you ever seen him?

Have you ever talked with him? He's a great fellow. You should meet

DON'T know who will be president of the league, but I hope we will get a good man. It's hard to satisfy eight different persons, so we must be careful in our selection."

Jack Keogh Digs Up Another Player for Penn

THE Penn football season has two more weeks to run, and still Dr. Jack Keogh, of New England and West Philadelphia, keeps bringing new candidates out for the Red and Blue football team. Whenever Jack sees a husky student around the University dental school who is not out for the team he turns on a rapid-fire speech which usually results in the said student appearing on Franklin Field the next day.

Doctor Keogh's latest protege is Ben Buyers, a citizen of Harrisburg ad a candidate of two days. Buyers played one year at Chicago and is a halfback. If he shows up as well as the other Keogh finds he'll be giving the regular Penn backs a battle for their position. Among the players Keogh has turned over to the varsity are Peters, Frank, Smith, Schweidel, Harvey and Graves.

IKE Bill Hollenback, Keogh is giving his services to Penn for the grand sum of one dollar. He intends to spend his year's salary on a shave and haircut.

Racing Game Should Thrive Next Season

DACING on eastern tracks during the 1918 season has been a pronounced success. Handicapped by many things entirely unfavorable to the est interests of the game, the turf sport managed to stand up well under the atrain. Now that the war is over, everything in a sporting way is excted to boom. Prospects for next season are unusually bright. Racing much to support the war loans and war charities and aided the breedbureau army remount division. In this way the turf game did much o Ingratiate itself into the heart of the Administration and helped to make w boosters for the sport.

THE breeding industry now has revived to the broad scale that obtained before the eastern tracks suffered so severely when the antibetting laws were passed.
